

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

I. An Obseruation of Two Boys bit by a Mad Dog, Communicated by Dr. Martin Lister, Fellow of the Coll. of Phys. and R. S.

ABout the last of October, 1679. it happened that Two Boys of Ten and Nine Years Old, of a Sanguin and Cholerick Complexion, did touch and handle the Head of a Dog which had been wounded by a Mad Dog, which by the handling and washing of his Wound by the Children, the Dog so wounded was healed, and did not become Mad.

But about May, 1680. the Children became so unwell, and were seized with a paining Grief towards the bottom of their Bellies, which did grind and torment them with Pain and Trouble, which ascended gradually upwards towards their Navil.

And about the First of July, together with the fore-said Grief, they were taken with a slow Flux, and with Fainting Fits by times, when the fore-said Pains assaulted them. After they had continued thus for a time, their Pain and Grief ascended towards and above the Stomach, whereupon followed very violent and Convulsive-like Motions in their Bodies, especially about the Stomach and Belly, by which they were tossed and tumbled and disturbed in the whole Body, with some foaming at the Mouth, in the interim of their Fits; now and then these Symptoms continued and increased until the latter end of August that they were taken with the Fear of Water, and could not indure to look into any Liquid

Liquid thing, until the Cup was covered, but forthwith would have fallen down as dead, and so would have layn a little time as in a founding or dead Fit ; and then would have tumbled and tossed in the fore-said violent Motions and Distractions of their Bodies, moaning and groaning; and ordinarily , the Eldest especially, snarled, barked, and endeavoured to bite like a Dog, they continued in this Fit for an Hour sometimes, and sometimes less, and so came out of the Convulsive-like Motions, lying as it had been in a Sound, a little before they came out of the Fits, and when they did come out of the Fits, would have cropen away in a feared manner from any who had been by them : and thus within an Hour, or little more, they came so out of their Fits, that they were also well and as much themselves as ever.

Observe that they both took the Fits and came out of them at the same time ; as soon as the Eldest fell in, immediately the Youngest took the Fit, and when the Eldest began to come out of the Paroxysm or Fit, the Youngest became forthwith well. And thus they remained under the said Symptomes until the middle of September, every Day taking the said Fits, in which they could not speak, and in their Intermissions were astowardly and in their Wits as ever.

But about the middle of September, about which time, especially their Barking and snarling like a Dog came, they became more wild ; so as for some Days now and then, even whilst out of their torturing Fits, they would not endure any Company, no not so much as to come near one the other, but would have fled from all others, so from one another, and thus continued of this Disposition for a Week ; and then the Eldest drew near his Father, saying as one surpriz'd, Father, I am well ; and so he

he and the other became forthwith well, that they would not only converse with Friends and others, but also look into the Water without any fear; and as well in their Wits and Memories as ever, and so continued to be well for Three or Four Days, and after that fell ill again, and remained ill Six or Seven Days, at the end whereof they became well, in saying as formerly on a suddain to their Father, Father, I am well; and thus became well about the end of September, and continued both well as ever they were, to the Apprehension of all On-lookers, until the end of January, that the Eldest had some Fits like the former; but the Youngest remained well ever since September.

Observe, that sometimes in August, when the Symptoms did so appear as the Learned took up the Distemper to flow from the Poison of a Mad Dog, there were Doses of Antimony and Mercurius Vitæ prescribed which accordingly was administered, together with Antidotes of Venice Treacle, Powder of Crabs Eyes, and other things.